Project Goal

ABODE

premium spaces that nurture communities

The client is an established Real Estate Player in Central India.

He wanted to create a project for the upper middle classes because they had limited choice in their city.

Either the residential apartments were at the bottom end with sub standard facilities or at the luxury high end.

It was imperative to communicate the Target Audience about the real benefits this project offered them at a reasonable price.

Insights from Market Research

ABODE

premium spaces that nurture communities

- Most of the Players in the particular city focussed on the infrastructure and technical details in their Marketing Communication

- The Brand Identity of many Real Estate Companies in the city were similar and undifferentiated

Creating Differentiation
through Brand Positioning

ABODE
premium spaces that nurture communities

Abode has been created with the vision of residential projects where people can live in a connected community

Providing the amenities and facilities of modern, secure living to middle class and upper middle class families, at just a slightly upper cost.

The standard of living, which was meant only for the Ultra-Rich is now made available for many people.

The slogan encapsulates two attributes, premium and connectivity.
